

Writer Alert: The Intelligent Optimist magazine

Submitted on September 24, 2013

NWU has received a complaint that The Intelligent Optimist magazine still owes one of its freelancers about $1,500 (out of an original $4,000) for work done over a year ago, despite many promises of payment and intervention by an NWU grievance offer. Writers should keep this in mind when considering whether to take an assignment from the publication. The NWU is interested in hearing from other writers who may have had problems with The Intelligent Optimist. Please contact the grievance and contract division at: gcdcoordinator@nwu.org.